Commentary

Net performance of OCP Credit Strategy Fund was (2.25%) in November and (2.27%) year-to-date. Markets ended a volatile month lower, after experiencing sharp intra-month swings as investors weighed the continued uncertainties in Europe against signs of U.S. economic growth. The Dow experienced its largest single day gain since March 2009 on the last day of November, following the announcement by six central banks of a coordinated rate cut intended to improve liquidity for European financial institutions. The CS Leveraged Loan Index, CS High Yield Bond Index, and S&P500 returned (0.38%), (1.81%), and (0.22%) in the month, respectively.

During the month, a number of the Portfolio's event-related positions were impacted by intra-month volatility and general investor risk aversion. These included General Motors (bonds, warrants), Edison Mission (senior notes), US Treasury Bonds (short), Lightsquared (secured term loan), and Penson Worldwide (senior notes). Lightsquared's first lien loan experienced volatility as the company continues to work toward gaining U.S. FCC approval of its mobile broadband service. While the term loan traded down during the month, we continue to see value in the company's spectrum assets. Penson, a financial, traded lower as sentiment for the sector weakened and its debt was downgraded. Financials were also impacted by MF Global Corporation's bankruptcy (to which the Portfolio has had no exposure) and issues related to missing assets.

Partially offsetting these mark-to-market losses, the Portfolio benefitted from its short position in Spanish government bonds and from several long positions which experienced positive corporate events. These long positions included South Edge (secured loans) and Boyd Gaming (revolving credit). South Edge distributed an additional payment to lenders under the plan of reorganization approved this summer and has been one of the Portfolio's top performers in 2011. South Edge was a smaller, less followed restructuring situation and the company's long and complex work-out process culminated with its successful emergence from bankruptcy which ultimately valued the loan above par. Boyd Gaming loans gained as the company fully repaid and canceled the commitments under the revolving credit facility held in the Portfolio ahead of its stated May 2012 maturity. Some lenders had previously accepted Boyd's offer to extend the maturity of the loan in exchange for modest financial incentives; we did not, believing that the offer's terms would be insufficient for the exchanged loan to trade at par, and correctly anticipated that the company would refinance the balance of the revolving credit prior to its maturity.

We continue to believe the current market environment will create attractive investment opportunities for the Fund and that the Fund has significant liquidity to capitalize on the growing opportunity set.
