Commentary

Net performance of OCP Credit Strategy Fund was 1.11% and 8.18% in October and year-to-date, respectively. The "risk on" market sentiment resumed in October as the U.S. government reopened and investors grew more convinced of continued bond buying by the U.S. Fed through the fourth quarter. This led to the higher monthly returns coming from the higher risk assets with equities leading. The CS Leveraged Loan Index, CS High Yield Index, and S&P500 returned 0.80%, 2.42%, and 4.60% in the month, respectively.

The Portfolio's top performers for the month were Lehman, Jefferson County Municipal bonds, and Edison Mission. The Jefferson County bonds traded lower during September but as we expected, Jefferson County announced a modified plan with creditors to allow the company to proceed with its bond offering and finally emerge from bankruptcy. While certain creditors agreed to further concessions, our recoveries will be consistent with the original plan. We expect to receive distributions by year-end. There were no significant detractors during the month.
